

Williams Perez is a graduate from FIT where he studied fine art and illustration. Williams is a strong visual communicator. His work instills the principles of traditional drawing before transitioning to digital and translates the challenges of real life into images that educate and inspire, while always including diversity to support his hispanic heritage. Some of his clients are The Western Press, Peer magazine, The Salvation Army, Forsta, Press Ganey, and Time Studios. Williams lives and works in Queens, NY.